"German Syrup"

A Throat
and Lung Specialty.

Those who have not used Boschee's German Syrup for some severe and chronic trouble of the Throat and Lungs can hardly appreciate what a truly wonderful medicine it is. The delicious sensations of healing, easing, clearing, strength-gathering and recovering are unknown joys. For German Syrup we do not ask easy cases.
Sugar and water may smooth a throat or stop a tickling—for a while.
This is as far as the ordinary cough medicine goes. Boschee's German Syrup is a discovery, a great Throat and Lung Specialty. Where for years there have been sensitiveness, pain, coughing, spitting, hemorrhage, voice failure, weakness, slipping down hill, where doctors and medicine and advice have been swallowed and followed to the gulf of despair, where there is the sickening conviction that all is over and the end is inevitable, there we place German Syrup. It cures. You are a live man yet if you take it.

THE MOUNTAINS.

All through the frozen land we sped,
Through cuttings white and marshes
drear;
Through black plantations, gym and dead,
And forest giants darkly here.

The landscape fled and passed below,
And gazing still, we saw no more Than one great towering wall of snow.
An ocean with no farther shore!

Until the mountains rose around,
So sternly from the icy north,
And beauty, though rejected, found
A home in her own very dearth.

Cold they were, pride intensified
In every line so gaunt and grim—
A mantle and a pall of pride,
That lingered when all else grew dim.

The rocky heads all powdered o'er,
And in the valley far below
A forest tangle, and once more
A long and stainless slope of snow.

They seemed as mourning for the past,
In hopeless mourning for an age
So distant now, its records cast
But mystery on earth's dim page.

They seemed as frowning on the eye
That arrogantly dared to read
The secret thoughts they laid so by,
And to such silence had decreed.

They seemed as wrapped in voiceless scorn
Too passionless to stop to hate,
That anything of mortal born
Should dare one thought to penetrate.

I met them, and I left them so,
Still watching from their fortresses white,
Their cold, vast citadel of snow,
To see the first approach of night—

Longing to feel its shadows glide,
And veil their grief and hide their pain,
With eager longing; even pride,
Though measureless, could not restrain.
—Lillian Wainstien in Chambers' Journal.

He Wants to Be Saved from His Friends.

"Why do I keep my proposed trip to Europe so secret?" repeated a man whose circle of friends is larger than common to a person who had asked him the question. "Well, to tell the truth, because I want to escape being made a purchasing agent for a dozen or two of people whom I know. Whenever they learn that I am about to go abroad they overwhelm me with commissions of all kinds. One man wants a photograph of a certain tower of the castle at Heidelberg; another wants a peculiar kind of a match-safe, which may be bought at a certain shop in Paris; still a third is anxious to have a few London neckties, and others want umbrellas, sticks, opera glasses, cigar holders, jewels or something else.

"It's a nuisance in the first place to buy these things, especially as you are likely to be in a hurry at times. Then when you arrive back in New York you are likely to have trouble with the customs officials, because your friends always expect you to get their articles in duty free. Besides, no one ever pays you in advance, and you have to go around dunning the people. To cap the climax, you often buy things that don't suit the persons who have asked the favor of you, and their disappointed looks or words make you feel unpleasant, to say the least. Consequently, having been through these experiences several times, I now keep my intended departure as secret as possible."—New York Tribune.

Preference of Cannibals for Chinamen.
The black cannibals of northern Queensland are exceedingly partial to Chinamen. The reason is said to be that the flesh of the Chinese is peculiarly tender and palatable, owing to rice being their staple article of diet. There is now a numerous Chinese population in the north of Australia, and scores of them
who have ventured beyond the confines of civilization have been captured and devoured by the natives. This explains the nonchalance with which the northern Queensland surveyor recently reported in these terms to the government: "The blacks have stolen all my provisions and
'sampled' two of my Chinamen."—London Tit-Bits.

Fate of the Turkeys.

A certain parish north of a thousand miles from Portland devotes one Sunday evening each month to what they term a "missionary concert," it being the duty of some of the church to keep posted on the progress of mission work in the different countries and report the same at these meetings. A certain active worker whose study was the land of the sultan electrified the audience by announcing one evening that "his was a sorrowful report," adding, in all seriousness, "that the Turkeys had all had their crops cut off."—Lewiston Journal.

Catarrah of the ears and catarrah of the Eustachian tubes often cause deafness.
Catarrah of the stomach loads the stomach with tough phlegm and interferes with digestion. Catarrah of the gall bladder obstructs the outflow of the bile, which is absorbed into the circulation, and thus gives rise to jaundice. Catarrah of the bladder is a dangerous disease, from the difficulty of getting rid of the mucus.

Weldless steel chains are being experimented with in England. The chains are out from a blank after the same general methods employed in cutting out a chain from a single piece of wood. As steel is used, it is asserted that the weight can be reduced one-third from what was necessary in old chains of similar strength.

The largest yawl on the Atlantic coast is said to be the Whitecap, eighty-three feet over all, owned by Dr. J. T. Rothwell known in Massachusetts bay, having been formerly owned by D. H. Rice, of the Hull Yacht club. She was built in Essex, and rigged first as a schooner.

BY TELEGRAPH!

ANTI-HARRISON REPUBLICANS.

There are many Republicans in the East as well as on the Pacific Coast who are disgusted with Harrison. These dissatisfied members of the party are nearly unanimous for Blaine, but they fear the Eluded Knight will never be able to take an active part in politics again. The New York Mail and Express, edited by Colonel Shephard, who prints a quotation from the Bible at the head of his editorial columns and would not misrepresent anybody but a Democrat, says:

The Secretary of State is in a pretty bad shape. Friends who see him at the window where he often sits looking out at the ocean remark about his failure in appearance, but Mrs. Blaine tells them he is improving every day. Whether this is a clever bit of diplomacy or whether she is deceiving herself it would not be safe to say, but his condition can be pretty well summed up in the remark made by a friend who had not seen him since he left Washington and who got a good glimpse of him as he rode by in his carriage: "That is not Jim Blaine, that is his ghost." His shoulders are drawn in and his chest recedes, his doctors are buoying him up and encouraging him, but a noted metropolitan doctor who makes his summer home here was heard to say only yesterday in the hotel office that the Cabinet room in the White House would never see him again. The world outside has no idea of the real status of this distinguished man's illness. There are plenty of correspondents here, but for some reason or other they are keeping the truth back, but all his friends and even the simple farmers about Bar Harbor say: "He is not going to get well."

The admirers of Mr. Blaine, recognizing the probability of his permanent retirement from politics, have suggested that a conference of anti-Harrison Republicans be held to determine the best course to pursue to prevent his renomination. The names of Sherman, Cullum, Reed, McKinley, Depew and Hawley are mentioned in connection with the nomination, but none of them arouse enthusiasm. The leaders in the anti-Harrison movement, therefore deem it advisable to confer with each other and if possible, unite on a candidate that will command a following that will defeat Harrison in the National Convention.

It is conceded by Republicans who take a comprehensive view of the political field, that there is but little hope of electing any candidate they may nominate next year. Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan, which have all been Republican strongholds, are now in the doubtful list, as are also Rhode Island and New Hampshire in the far East, and Harrison could not hope to get an electoral vote from Colorado or Montana, nor even from Nevada, if the people could free themselves from the yoke of the basins.

PRINCELY INCOMES.

The English Radical newspapers, which have been making considerable capital out of the recent scandal, say the Prince of Wales' income consists of £100,000 a year from the Government civil list and the revenue of the Duchy of Cornwall, amounting to £38,000 to £40,000 a year. The Princess on her marriage received a very small dowry from her father, the poor King of Denmark, and she would have been positively poor in her own right had not Parliament voted her £30,000 a year. Each of her children, and there are five of them, receives from the country an annual income of £6,000. Multiply these sums by five to get them into dollars, and find that the revenue of the family is just about $1,000,000 a year.

The German Emperor's speech, revised by his grandmother, Queen Victoria, was a very peaceable effusion. He said his aim above all is to maintain peace, for peace alone can give the confidence necessary to a healthy development of science, art and trade and only so long as peace remains are we at liberty to bestow earnest thought upon great problems.

The New York Telegram says a strong syndicate is at work to put the price of silver materially higher. The JOURNAL hopes the syndicate will succeed in this instance and give the people the relief denied them by Mr. Reed's Congress. An advance in the price of silver means good prices for everything produced in the State.

The case of G. W. Faylor, the lobbyist, against several members of the California Legislature for a division of the spoils, is set for trial in Judge Wallace's Court, San Francisco, on the 15th instant. If a compromise is not effected, the public will learn more about law-making in the Golden State than is shown by the records.

The farmers of Oregon have organized a State Alliance. The platform recommends the adoption of the sub-treasury scheme and favors the free coinage of silver.

According to the investigations of the Census Bureau, the lumber industry will cease in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin within six years.

Guarding Against Pauper Immigration—Incorporation of an Interstate Electric Railway.

THE BARDSELY INVESTIGATION.

Bardsey Makes Sweeping Charges. Special to the Journal.

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—The Bardsey Investigating Committee held another session to-day, at which a statement made by Bardsey to Editor McVade of the Ledger, was for the first time made public. It proved to be a long interview in which Bardsey again went over the story of the Keystone Bank and stoutly maintained that he put the $330,000 in the bank but did not know what became of it. Bardsey said that Bank Examiner Drew had been a heavy borrower from the Keystone, and was completely under the thumb of Lucas and Marsh. In regard to John Wanamaker, Bardsey said Marsh told him Wanamaker knowingly held over-issued bank stock and demanded $100,000 for it and upset the plans for reorganizing the bank. Marsh retained Sulzberger and Johnson as counsel, and they made a demand on Wanamaker, which he refused, proposing that the Lucas estate should pay him $50,000, Marsh $25,000 and the bank $25,000.

The lawyers then notified Wanamaker that if the fraudulent shares were not delivered on a specified date they would resort to legal measures. The shares were then turned over without delay. Bardsey asserted that Wanamaker had made a threat that he would see Controller Lacey and have the bank closed before they expected it. Postmaster General Wanamaker was called before the committee and said he never pledged the over-issued stock after he was told it was over-issued, and it was out of his hands at the time. He said Marsh asked him to assist the bank and he declined. As to the story told by Bardsey about threats to close the bank and that the lawyers compelled him to return the stock, Wanamaker said it was absolutely false.

Bardsey also talked a great deal about his connection in the past with several prominent Philadelphians and blamed them for the stand they had taken against him. Speaking of the scheme to get the gas works from the city, Bardsey asserted that Colonel McClure of the Times was in it. McClure was to get a big block of stock for his advocacy in his paper and was not to pay a cent for it.

The Prince of Wales Jeered by a Crowd of Hoodlums.

Special to the Journal.

LONDON, July 10.—During the parade in honor of Emperor William to-day, while the procession was on the way to the Thames embankment at Ludgate Circus, where the rougher element of the city was collected, there were some exciting incidents. This rowdy element had been getting up steam on beer and gin for hours, and was prepared to give the Prince of Wales or any body else a warm reception. While waiting for the heir apparent there were a number of lively scrimmages between hoodlums and the police, and when the Prince of Wales' carriage appeared the mob was in condition to do unpleasant things. When the carriage containing the Prince and Princess of Wales passed through Ludgate Circus it was driven at a rapid pace and had passed the dangerous spot before the main body of the crowd was aware that the Prince was in their midst. As it was, however, in spite of the presence of the Princess, the Prince was greeted with repeated outbursts of jeering and "booing," which were slightly set off by a few faint cheers. In the face of this hostile demonstration the Prince was apparently unmoved. The reception accorded the Prince of Wales was in strong contrast to the hearty ringing cheers with which the Duke of Connaught, his brother, was greeted by the crowd as the Duke passed over the same ground.

Guarding Against Pauper Immigration.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Assistant Secretary Nettleton has instructed the acting Superintendent of Immigration at New York, in view of the published fact in foreign newspapers that destitute Russian Jews are being sent to the United States at the instance of foreign governments, to exercise special care in their examination. The matter, he intimates, may become a subject of diplomatic correspondence.

A Vessel Ashore. Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—The Merchants' Exchange reports the bark Don Carlos ashore one mile below the Golden Gate. Nothing more is known as yet.

LATER.—The Nicaraguan bark, Don Carlos, Captain Tobey, seventy-four days from Caleta Buena, Chili, lost its bearings in a dense fog late this afternoon while trying to enter the Bay, and ran ashore one mile south of the Golden Gate. Tugs went to her rescue, and there are now three lines fast to her and a life boat alongside. It will be impossible to get her off until high water, which comes at midnight, but it is believed the damage will be small. The sea is not very high. The Don Carlos is a wooden bark of 694 tons consigned to Grace & Co., San Francisco.

At 10 o'clock the tugs succeeded in getting the ship off, and are towing her in.

Ticket Scalpers' War. Special to the Journal.

CHICAGO, July 10.—The ticket scalpers have begun a fight on Chairman Finley of the Western Passenger Association. They contend he is guilty of conspiracy in having his spotters buy mileage tickets to be forfeited when presented on trains for passengers, making a test case. One of Mulford's employees to-day took money from one of Finley's detectives for a ticket to Denver, and then refused to give up the ticket or return the money unless the man would sign a written statement that the purchase was made in good faith. The scalper was promptly arrested for embezzlement, and the case continued one week in bonds of $300. Mulford declares his determination to fight Finley.

Opposition to the Cattle Bill. Special to the Journal.

LONDON, July 10.—Scared by the formidable character of opposition to the cattle bill Mr. Chapman, President of the Board of Agriculture, has fallen on the rights of the board to issue a series of restrictive regulations, not being quite sure about the extent of the rights. He has invited ship owners to a conference on the subject on Tuesday next. Ship owners will send delegates advised to tell Mr. Chapman it will be best to leave the trade alone or simply make the British harmonize with American regulations.

An Interstate Electric Railroad. Special to the Journal.

MILWAUKEE, July 10.—Articles of incorporation have been prepared in this city and were to-day sent to Madison for the organization of an Interstate Electric Railway Company. Oil Paintings Increase the Cost of Moving. I discovered the other day one of the probable reasons why there was less moving on or about May 1. Everybody knows that double rates are charged at that time by the owners of vans. I accompanied a friend to the office of a man in the business to bargain for a van to move his office furniture. The furniture would make one small load for one of the large vehicles, and the distance to be traversed was three blocks.

"I'll do it for $3," said the van man. "Eight dollars!" echoed my astounded friend. "Why, there are only a few desks and tables, a stove, some books, no looking glass and nothing liable to break."

"Can't help that. We have to charge at this time of the year. Just look at that van (pointing to a huge wagon in front of the door). I've just had it decorated and that oil painting put on, and I will have to recoup myself somehow."

There it was. The painting on the sides of the van costs the mover the money. This van had a picture of Washington crossing the Delaware on one side, and Abraham Lincoln blessing a lot of pickaninnies on the other. People who want to move have to pay for those pictures.

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." Mrs. ELIA A. S. R. Young of Lovelocks was here yesterday on his way to Carson. He says the wheat crop this year is the best ever raised on Big Meadows.

The Con. Cal. & Va. declared a dividend of fifty cents a share yesterday, payable on the 15th. This is good news for stockholders in that mine.

The foundation for the new Congregational Church, corner of Virginia and Fifth street, is being laid, and no church in the State will have a firmer one.

The Verdi Mill Company has purchased a lot in Powning's Addition between the Phillips' and Mitchell places on which it will erect a fine residence.

S. Emrich, who spent some days at Weber Lake, says the fishing is good, the hotel accommodations all that could be desired, and the charges very reasonable.

George M. Beatty, who was shot by W. W. Booth, is steadily improving and will soon be all right. The Hawthorne Bulletin says Booth has not as yet procured bail.

The railroad men say it snowed at Summit and rained out on the Humboldt yesterday. The oldest inhabitants admit that they never saw such weather at this season of the year before.

Congressman Bartine passed Winnemucca Thursday on his way to Washington. The Silver State announced that it was his desire to make a speech to the citizens while the train remained at the depot.

The case of Thomas Horn, who was indicted by the Grand Jury last Spring, is set for trial in the District Court here next Monday. Horn, who is out on bail, was expected to arrive from Denver on the mid-night train.

George R. Walker of Winnemucca has gone East to attend the Grand Chapter of R. A. M., which meets at Minneapolis on the 21st instant. He came to California around Cape Horn in 1850, and has not been east of the Rocky Mountains since.

The Greenville Bulletin says: "Ex-Senator W. H. Patterson of Modoc has moved to Reno, Nevada, his future home. He goes to Reno because of the educational facilities afforded by that place. Modoc loses a good citizen by the removal of Dr. Patterson."

California papers say the explorers of Death Valley have had a hard time of it lately. Two of the survey party reached Calico on the 5th. They were well exhausted by the heat and from thirst. Some days the thermometer was 124 deg. A dog with them died from heat.

The cold weather makes times dull at the Summer resorts in the mountains. Hotels opened and stage lines started for the accommodation of tourists are not doing much business and unless the weather gets warmer very soon the proprietors of these hotels and stage routes will be out and injured.

The financial statement of the Con. Cal. & Va. ## "TRAVELING STONES."

What Dan DeQuille Says of Them.

In an idle moment, some twenty-five years ago, this deponent connected and wrote an item entitled "Traveling Stones." The stones were said to have been brought from the Phryngat country (because little was then known of that region, and it was not easy of access), where they were found in shallow basins in the rock. They were round, and ranged in size from those not bigger than a buckshot up to such as were of the size of ten-pin balls. They were evidently largely composed of magnetic iron ore, and when spread out on a floor or other level surface, would all run and huddle together like a covey of quail, though when one was removed too far from its mates it could not get back.

The story of the little traveling stones seemed to supply a want that had long been felt—to exactly fit and fill a certain little vacant nook in the minds of men—and they traveled through all the newspapers of the world. This I did not much mind, nor was I much worried by letters of inquiry at first, but it has now been some years since I ceased to enjoy them. First and last I must have had bushels of letters asking about these stones. Letter after letter have I opened from foreign parts in the expectation of hearing something to my advantage—that half a million had been left me somewhere or that somebody was anxious to pay me four bits a column for sketches about the mountains and the mines—and have only found some other man wanting to know about these traveling stones.

So it has gone on all these twenty-five years. The last is from Tiffin, Ohio, dated November 3d, and received yesterday. His name is Haines, and he wants to know all about these stones; could he obtain several, and how? Not long since I had a letter from a man in one of the New England States who informed me that there was big money in the traveling stones. I was to send him a carload, when he would exhibit and sell them, dividing the spoils. I have stood this thing for about a quarter of a century and it is becoming a little monotonous. I am growing old and want peace. I desire to throw up the sponge and acknowledge the corn; therefore, I solemnly affirm that I never saw or heard of any such diabolical cobbles as the traveling stones of Phryngat, though I still think there ought to be something of the kind somewhere in the world. If this candid confession shall carry a pang to the heart of any true believer I shall be glad of it, as the true believers have panged it to me right and left quite long enough. DAN DE QUILLE.

MULISH INTELLIGENCE.

How it is Exhibited in the Sutor Tunnel.

The ears in the Sutor tunnel are drawn by small, stout mules. From the mouth to the inmost point of operations, in the Comstock lode, is over four miles and a half. At different places in the tunnel the air is very good, but there are long stretches where the heat is intense and the air impure. The Enterprise says when the mules get to a good place they get down to a slow walk, and they will kick—not metaphorically—if the driver tries to get a "motion" on them. When they come across long stretches of heat they travel along at a good speed. In different places the air is supplied by big pipes. Here they will stop, and poke their nose in the end of the pipe, and cannot be made to move until they get a good "fill" of air, and they will fight viciously for the end of the pipe, too. In many places in the tunnel the cross-caps come down rather low. With horses the moment their ears touch anything, up goes their heads, but it is different with the mules; they guide themselves through the dark tunnel by the tips of their ears, and in a comparatively very few trips they know every bad place in the tunnel, how to advantage themselves of the good places. Horses are utterly worthless for the work done by the mules.

Striking for Better Food.

The Central Nevada says: "Nearly three weeks ago the miners at Pittsburg went out on a strike against the food furnished them by the company's Chinese boarding house. On Monday afternoon last all the men quit work in the mines and a majority of them came to Battle Mountain. A meeting was held Tuesday night and a letter sent to the Superintendent. The reply was not satisfactory and a second message was sent Thursday morning, to which an answer was expected in the afternoon."

Wool Growers' Association.

The wool growers met in Bridgeport on Monday and organized as the "East Walker River Wool Growers' Association," 150,000 sheep being represented, says the Bridgeport Chronicle-Union, and comprising a number of wealthy men of California and Nevada. The following officers were elected: President, Charles Shields of Mason Valley; Vice President, T. F. Fitzpatrick of Wellington; Secretary, Fred Hardy of Antelope Valley; Treasurer, Joseph Fementel of Mason Valley.

Virginia Miners' Union.

The Virginia City Miners' Union yesterday elected the following ticket without opposition:

For President, T. H. Smith; Vice President, Henry Hatteral; Financial and Recording Secretaries, Bernard Coyle, John A. Ingalls; Treasurer, Michael Young; Conductor, Jerome Quinlan; Warden, William Tinknell; Library Directors, L. Lobenstein, P. Malloy, Michael Carroll, John F. McDonnell, Walter H. Pearson; Trustees, M. O'Meara, Frank Upton, J. B. Kendall, Michael James, Michael H. Burke.

Fair Premiums.

The Sierra Valley Leader says: "The premiums and purses of the 11th District Fair are larger by about one thousand dollars than at the Nevada State Fair. They are both to be held the same week." "The above, which appears in the Greenville Bulletin, is not verified by the list of purses advertised in its columns, which aggregate only $4,200, while the speed programme of the Nevada State Fair aggregate $7,350. If the Bulletin will take the trouble to add up the amount of the purses advertised in its own columns and headed "$8,000," it will reduce the amount to $4,200. The fact is the amount of purses offered by the Nevada State Agricultural Society exceed the 11th District purses just $3,150.

People Who Sell Books.

Librarians are not the only ones who complain of persons who habitually soil books loaned to them by thumb stains and marginal penciling. That habit is the heaviest cross imposed on dealers in rare and expensive books. It is a practice with such dealers to send such books out for inspection when requested by those to whom the dealer thinks there is a chance to make a sale. Valuable books often suffer from the practice. Samuel J. Tilden, while a good buyer of books, was also a great offender in this respect. He thought nothing of keeping a book for weeks, making dealers send to him for it several times, and finally returning it thumbed and dog eared, with a message that he did not want it. On the whole, booksellers lost nothing through Mr. Tilden, for he did not spare money when a book caught his fancy, and his library contained many treasures, but at times his whims were costly and vexatious to those who tried to please him. Dealers say that there are many men in this city now to whom his habits seem to have been transmitted.—New York Times.

The Bane of Friendship.

It runs somewhat in this fashion: "I have half a mind to tell you something I heard about you the other day. Still, I am afraid you would be annoyed, and I believe I will not." Of course you say that you will not be annoyed, and upon this assurance your friend proceeds to say: "If you are quite sure you will not be angry I will tell you." Then comes some unpleasant thing reflecting on your temper, your tastes or, if there is a flaw to be found, your habits. Sometimes it comes in the definite form of an assertion that you have been guilty of some atrocity of which you know yourself to be innocent. Very naturally, in the latter case, you ask whence came the charge, only to find that the calumniator has extracted a promise that the author's identity shall not be revealed. So you are left defenseless. You cannot deny or explain.—Detroit Free Press.

The Original Use of Canes.

Somebody has been looking up the history of the original use of canes in this country, and finds that they were formerly a part of the repertory of the leaders of the church, being at one time the principal badge of the deacon. The deacon's cane was about five feet long, one end being embellished with a big knob, the other with feathers. When the small boy got too noisy or rebelled against the powers that were he was given a rap on the head with the uncharitable end of the stick. If the head of the family forgot himself while listening to the morning sermon, and lapsed into a blissful dream of old times in Merry England, the turkey plumes on the deacon's cane feathered him into life again.—St. Louis Republic.

A Way Lords Have.

It would appear that there are lords and lords, as the following dialogue may illustrate: Commoner (approaching peer)—Allow me, my lord, to introduce you to my friend, Lord Tadhurst. Peer (bowing coldly)—Your friend happens to be my nephew, and—taking commoner aside—allow me to give you a piece of advice. When I want to know a fellow peer I can introduce myself, but I don't want to know every one of them.
